How Brown Saw the Base-Ball Game

COPYRIGHT, 1907.

LENGTH, 350 FEET.

PRICE, $38.50.

Brown is a base-ball fan. He goes out to see the game. Before going to the base ball game he takes a few high balls, so when he comes to the field he sees things. The players run the bases backwards; they make a home run over the 3d base and 1st base to the plate, and instead of the player being thrown out he is thrown in.

After the game is over, Brown is taken home by a friend, and as usual, the friend gets all that is coming to him by Mrs. Brown who thinks he is responsible for Mr. Brown's condition. A screamingly funny Film.

THE Unwritten Law

A THRILLING DRAMA BASED UPON THE THAW-WHITE TRAGEDY

Almost everybody has read the Thaw-White Case which for many weeks filled the pages of all the daily papers throughout the country.

Our Film depicts in striking scenes the thrilling drama and thus gives a vivid interpretation of the dangers of a great city. The Film contains absolutely nothing objectionable and may be shown at any theatre
